The fire stations are not shelters, but rather “Warming Centers” providing temporary relief for those without power or heat.

Commenting on the assistance provided by the volunteer fire service, Russell J. Strickland, Director of the Department of Emergency Services said, “On behalf of County Executive David R. Craig we want to thank our county’s volunteer fire service for their assistance during this severe weather event. Our volunteers are always ready to assist those in need in our community and we are grateful for their service and generosity”.

The Department of Emergency Services is activated at Level II staffing and will remain operational throughout the duration of the latest winter storm. The County “Hot-Line” 410-838-5800 is also operational. Those with non-emergency storm related inquiries are asked to call the “Hot-Line” and refrain from calling 911 unless they have a true emergency.
